Eubank-Groves Title Fight Doesn't Need A Hard Sell

Some fights need superfluous build-up to create buzz.

Some fights are intriguing enough to sell themselves.

You can go ahead and count the imminent IBO super middleweight title match between champion Chris Eubank Jr. and countryman George Groves among the latter.

So much, in fact, that it's been dubbed the "Battle of Britain" by London's Daily Mail newspaper.

The 168-pounders were born and still reside within 75 miles of one another in the south of England, and proximity has done nothing to lessen the vitriol as the Feb. 17 bout draws nearer.

Eubank, 28, will enter the 21,000-seat Manchester Arena -- whose tickets sold out within just seven minutes -- with an eye on the third defense of his IBO belt which he captured via 10th round tko last February.

He's since beaten Arthur Abraham and Avni Yildirim by wide decision and third-round stoppage, respectively, and established himself among the sport's top 20-something commodities.

Part of that success may lie in genetics -- his father, Chris Sr., was a two-division champ between 1990 and 1995 -- and the older man leaned on lineage while suggesting "genetics" make his son the "most dangerous fighter on the planet."

"This is the biggest fight of my career so far," Eubank told Groves at the kick-off news conference. "But I have proved that the bigger the occasion the better I am. I will knock you out."

Groves was stopped twice by Carl Froch and lost a narrow decision to Badou Jack before picking up a title belt -- the WBA's -- in his fourth attempt against Fedor Chudinov last spring. He's defended once and enters the Eubank fight on a six-fight roll since September 2015.

The fight is part of the World Boxing Super Series tournament and the winner is scheduled to meet the winner of a Feb. 24 match between Callum Smith and Juergen Braehmer.

Boxrec Rankings list Eubank first and Groves third in their weight class, respectively, while Smith is fourth and Braehmer is ninth.

Groves, 29, dismissed the Eubank dynasty claim and suggested, instead, that his championship-level resume would carry the day.

"The reality is that I am the one with the experience of world-class fights, the pedigree, and the superior ability. (Eubank) cannot win this fight," he said. "If I was the smaller man in a fight at this high level and this hard I would be very concerned."

Turning to Eubank, he warned, "You are deluding yourself."

Groves, at 5-foot-11 1/2, is a half-inch taller than Eubank, although both men measure in with a 72-inch reach. The height difference appeared slightly more pronounced in Groves' favor when the fighters went face to face at the media gathering, though Eubank -- in a tight-fitting white T-shirt -- was certainly not overmatched physically alongside his foe in a black suit.

Groves has spent his entire ring career between 166 and 171 1/4 pounds, while Eubank was as light as 158 1/4 pounds for a TKO of Omar Siala in 2014 and has never been higher than the 167 1/4 he weighed for both the Abraham and Yildirim wins.

"This is real people fighting and real people go to sleep," Eubank told Groves. "Whenever you get hit, you crumble, and that is what you will do. What Froch did to you, it took something out of you and I can see it in your eyes."

Eubank is a favorite of those setting odds for the fight, including Bovada (sports.bovada.lv) -- where a $210 wager on the IBO champ is required to return a $100 profit if he wins. A $100 outlay on Groves, meanwhile, would return a $170 windfall for an upset.

"It doesn't matter if my game plan goes out the window, I will find a way to stop Groves," Eubank said. "No way in hell is he going to take this away from me."

The ratings are published monthly via internet or the website by the I.B.O. All rights reserved. Although the ratings are based on sources which are believed to be reliable, accuracy cannot be guaranteed. These ratings are the official ratings of the I.B.O. The use by others should be considered for information purposes only at the user's discretion. The ratings are based on the collation of information based on results of fights. Points are allocated for winning fights the number determined by the quality of opponent. Fighters are normally considered inactive when they have not fought in one year unless currently scheduled to fight. We rate the boxer in the weight class where we feel he is most likely to compete. If we are missing fights of a boxer or are publishing incorrect information please contact us. If you feel your boxer should be rated higher and he has beaten a fighter now rated higher than him in the last 12 months please contact us, iboratings@aol.com.
